East Texas Iron Ore

To Editor Chronicle:

On the 15th of June 1910, the first coastwise shipment of East Texas iron ore left Texas City for Philadelphia, in the steamship F. J. Luckenbach. It consisted of 568 tons and came from Cass county, on the line of the Jefferson and North western Railway. The shipment was intended as a test lot to be tried in a Pennsylvania blast furnace and was not intended as the immediate precursor of other and larger shipments.

The results of the test were so favorable that contracts involving 1000 tons of ore a day can now be placed in East Texas.

The Texas Iron and Coal Co. with a capital of $3,000,000 has been organized by New York, Texas and Pennsylvania people and a permit to transact business is applied for. This company has acquired 52,000 acres of ore lands in east Texas, and proposes to engage in the business of mining and shipping iron on a large scale.

There are two outlets for this ore, disregarding such shipments as may go by rail to St. Louis or to Birmingham, Ala. These are from the ore fields by rail to some gulf port, Port Arthur, Bolivar or Texas City, and from the ore fields to some point on the Mississippi river, Vicksburg or Baton Rouge, etc.

It depends to a large degree on the railroads contiguous to the ore districts whether this ore will go out through a Texas port or down the Mississippi river in steamers by way of New Orleans. If the railroads will give a rate of $1.00 a ton to tidewater the greater part of the ore will go out from some Texas gulf port. If they will not do this it is likely the traffic will be diverted from the gulf ports and seek an outlet by way of Mississippi river and New Orleans. This traffic will not stand a higher rate than $1 a ton to tidewater, for the ore must be laid down at Atlantic ports at a total cost not to exceed $3 a ton.

The railroad haul to tidewater does not exceed 325 miles and a rate of $1 a ton means three-tenths of a cent per mile. In the Birmingham district, such traffic has been handled for twenty-five hundred miles of a cent per mile for distances of 100 miles. Applied to our own conditions this means a rate of 75¢ a ton for a haul of 300 miles, so it would be reasonable to expect a rate of $1 a ton. The rate to St. Louis, 540 miles is $2.00 per ton. Shipments have been made to Birmingham. 512 miles, for $2.20.

There is a large tonnage of iron ore to be moved in one direction or the other. The 300,000 tons a year can easily be increased to 1,000,000 tons a year, for the ore fields are practically inexhaustible. Loading and unloading facilities are nearing completion at Texas City.

The development of the Eastern Texas iron ore fields will certainly go forward and if the roads want the business they must establish a rate that will secure it.

University Tex. W. B. Phillips

Prof. Phillips is conversant with and thoroughly understands the iron ore question. He says that the 300,000 tons per year can be easily increased to 1,000,000 tons. That sounds extremely good coming from such high authority.

The next question is, why ship this 1,000,000 tons anywhere? why ship it away from the best market in the world—and then ship the product back? Is that good business? If those who purchase the ore can make money out of the manufactured product, what should the plant situated in the field do? The Texas ores are in the centre of one half of the cotton crop of the South. This gives a market for the product of a cotton tie plant at its very door. Then why ship the raw material away? It is folly to think Texas has not the capital, nor the ability to handle such a business. If such influential citizens as Prof. Phillips, and thousands of others will throw their influence on the side of the State manufacturing all its raw material, then something on this line would be accomplished. In this way the State can be made independently rich. There is not the slightest doubt, but a cotton tie plant would be one of the best paying properties capital ever invested in. The market is here for the product of the cotton tie factory; the market increasing yearly and will continue to do so. The ore is here to supply the demand, then why send that ore away—paying freight both ways, and a heavy profit in addition? Instead of a cheap rate on ore, it would be better if a rate was put on that would force the using of the ore at home. People sometimes have to be made to see a good thing. Just why the capitalists of the country cannot see what profit there is in the manufacture of cotton ties is something very strange. Is Texas willing to send all this gold out of the country to be put in other pockets—when it rightfully belongs to this State, to increase its wealth?

House Mixed Paint

THE formula O. V. B. is mixed House Paint is as follows:

PIGMENT—

50 per cent Pure Sublimed White Lead.

50 per cent Pure Oxide of Zinc.

LIQUID—

91 per cent Pure Raw Linseed Oil.

5.3 per cent Pure Spirits of Turpentine.

3.7 per cent Pure Turpentine Drier.

PURE COLORING MATTER to produce the required shade.

The great requirement of paint is durability and this is dependent upon a proper combination of correct liquids and pigments. Pure Linseed Oil is admitted to be the best liquid for paint making. It holds the solid pigments in combination.

When an American mixture with adhere to a surface and harden to form a dense, tough covering. If the paint contains small quantity of Linseed Oil, or if the oil is acted upon and changed by the pigments, the paint is short lived and undesirable. O. V. B.
